DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

2. Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Agee (US 6,512,737).

Referring to Claim 1, Agee teaches a mobile wireless communication apparatus 12-17 (fig. 1), that communicates wirelessly with a base station 11 (fig. 1), comprising:

An adaptive antenna (see col. 9, lines 24-30);

A receiving portion for receiving a control signal, to control directivity of said adaptive antenna, transmitted from said base station (see col. 8, lines 49-63 where the control signal is that signal that adjusts the antennas to reduce interference); and

A control portion for controlling the directivity of said adaptive antenna to be a beam steering or a null steering based on the control signal (see col. 30, lines 14-20).

Referring to Claim 2, Agee also teaches said control portion controlling the directivity of said adaptive antenna by changing weighting of the beam steering and the null steering of said adaptive antenna (see col. 30, lines 14-20).

Referring to Claim 3, Agee also teaches said control portion controlling the directivity of said adaptive antenna every frequency used by said wireless communication apparatus (see col. 11, lines 33-47).

Referring to Claim 4, Agee also teaches a receiving quality monitoring portion for monitoring quality of a signal from said base station (see col. 11, lines 1-8); and

A quality information transmitting portion for transmitting information about quality of a receiving signal monitored by said receiving quality monitoring portion to said base station (see col. 11, lines 8-15),

Wherein said control portion controls the directivity of said adaptive antenna based on the control signal which said base station calculates based on the quality information (see col. 11, lines 8-15).

Referring to Claim 5, Agee also teaches controlling the directivity of said adaptive antenna based one the control signal which said base station produces according to the number of wireless communication apparatuses connected to said base station (see col. 11, lines 33-47).

Referring to Claim 6, Agee also teaches controlling the directivity of said adaptive antenna based on the control signal which said base station produces according to the amount of communication in said base station (see col. 11, lines 33-47).

Referring to Claim 7, Agee also teaches a battery remaining amount detection portion for detecting a remaining amount of a battery powering said wireless communication apparatus, wherein said control portion stops the control of the directivity of said adaptive antenna based on a result of comparison between a predetermined threshold value and the remaining amount of said battery detected by said battery remaining amount detection portion (see col. 12, lines 43-54).

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-7 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
